Message from the City Manager

2019 WAS A YEAR OF SIGNIFICANT PROGRESS

for the City of Tallahassee. With the leadership of the Mayor and City Commissioners and in coordination with my fellow appointed officials, we set ambitious goals and focused on tackling the biggest issues facing our community, carving a path toward a bright future.

Key among our accomplishments was the establishment of the 2024 Strategic Plan. This comprehensive, five-year plan touches every element of the organization, establishing metrics and goals by which we will measure our success as we reach our bicentennial.

As part of the plan's development, a workgroup of City employees and residents revised the City's mission, vision and organizational values, which had not been updated in 22 years. The City's bold, new mission is to be the national leader in the delivery of public service, and we are well on our way.

As the largest single provider of municipal services in our region, the City of Tallahassee is a driving force for creating a strong, vibrant community with a balanced budget totaling $900 million. The City's workforce, which is made up of more than 3,000 employees, is innovative, dedicated and invested in the success of the organization and the community. They work to ensure every citizen is proud to call Tallahassee home because it's their home, too.

This past year, we've accomplished a great many things toward improving Tallahassee's quality of life, safety, economy and infrastructure, including expansion of the TEMPO program to aid at-risk youth and combat the impacts of poverty; completion of a robust process for a nationwide police chief search; implementation of a site selection process for the new police headquarters; creation of the Office of Diversity and Inclusion to further the development and implementation of the City's diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives; adoption of the Clean Energy Resolution to secure our energy future by setting milestone markers, moving us toward 100% net renewable energy; recruited MetroNet, a broadband provider, to make an initial investment of $75 million in Tallahassee that will create jobs and make us the state's first Gigabit City; acquisition of the Northwood Centre for redevelopment; and achieving a 10-year high in passenger travel through the Tallahassee International Airport.

Within the pages of this Year in Review, you'll read more about the groundbreaking things happening throughout the organization. You'll also get a glimpse into the immense impact the City makes in the community.

While we created positive change in many areas, the multi-faceted, systemic issues facing our community are not ours alone to solve. Therefore, we enhanced citizen engagement, involving residents in neighborhood visioning, community planning, disaster response and more. We strengthened partnerships with neighborhood associations, faith and educational institutions and peer agencies. Collectively, we are stronger.

We know where we are headed, and our horizon is bright. We are leading with integrity. We are investing in excellence. We are doing the work required to ensure Tallahassee sets the standard for others to follow.

Moving Forward with Purpose / Revitalizing Our Neighborhoods

Tallahassee is a community of renchtor neighborhoods, and the neighborhoods to enjoy. in which we live contribute to who we are. Each Tallahassee neighborhood is unique with its own set of advantages and challenges.

To help ensure that all residents can enjoy an excellent quality of life, the City invests resources into every pocket of our community to address challenges, be those issues of connectivity, economics or livability.

These efforts coupled with strong citizen engagement have led to the creation of action plans that set the course for neighborhoods to be vibrant and safe. These plans include the Frenchtown Placemaking Plan and the Greater Bond Neighborhood First Plan.

The Frenchtown Placemaking Plan was the first neighborhood plan to be officially approved, and several noticeable elements were implemented in 2019. This includes new neighborhood designation signs that top street signs throughout the area, nine "Soul Voices" audio markers that detail the neighborhood's rich history and large-scale block party events, dubbed "Frenchtown Rising," that take place on Friday nights before Florida A&M University home games. Each of these elements addresses a different objective set forth in the plan, which is ongoing in its execution; however, they all work together to build a stronger

Frenchtown for residents and visitors to enjoy.

Similarly, the Greater Bond Neighborhood First Plan addresses the residents' top priorities and concerns. Approved soon after Frenchtown's plan, a key element came to fruition this year, securing additional funding of $8,800 from AARP to construct linear pocket parks.

Nearby, South City was designated a "Purpose Built Community" by the Atlanta-based non-profit Purpose Built Communities Inc. Its three-pronged approach focuses on affordable housing, cradle-to-college education and community amenities that promote a healthy lifestyle. To complement this effort, the City allocated more than $1 million in support and will collaborate with residents and stakeholders in 2020 on a comprehensive neighborhood plan.

The City also installed new gas street lights along Seventh Avenue for the Levy Park neighborhood and provided support to help the Eastgate and Bull Run V neighborhoods host socials for their residents.

Through steady visioning and a strong commitment to its residents, the City is bringing value to all areas of our community to ensure that Tallahassee flourishes.

Economic Development

With a Gross Domestic Product (GDP) of $13.8 billion, Tallahassee has one of the fastestgrowing economies in Florida. Through coordination and cooperation with multiple stakeholders, the economic development efforts of the City of Tallahassee have advanced local business.

Key 2019 Highlights

- Approved a joint-use agreement for City-owned power poles, making way for MetroNet, a fiber optic telecommunication service provider, to invest $75 million in the Tallahassee market.
- Purchased the Northwood Centre at auction to spur development along the Monroe Street corridor.
- Received $17.5 million in aviation grant funding for the design of a new International Passenger Processing Facility at the Tallahassee International Airport (TLH).

- Contributed to a 38 percent decrease over five years in the unemployment rate, bringing the rate to 3.5 percent.

Making Tallahassee Florida's First Gigabit City

Success in today's modern world requires a stronger connection to technology than ever before. From basic research for a school project to sealing international business deals, a fast, reliable and affordable internet connection is crucial. Two important steps were made this year to further

First, the City Commission requested two studies. One looked at municipal broadband networks. The other analyzed fiber optic networks and broadband internet accessibility in Tallahassee. For the latter, a partnership was formed with a research team from Florida A&M University's School of Business and Industry.

Research sought to analyze the feasibility of utilizing or expanding the City's existing municipal fiber network to provide broadband internet to residents and businesses. The basis of the discussion was rooted in the perception of a "digital divide," in which a lack of internet access acts as a social and economic barrier for economically-disadvantaged residents. Highspeed internet, or broadband, is instrumental for residents as it relates to providing economic opportunity, job creation, education and civic engagement. However, there are many areas in this country where broadband access is unavailable. In urban areas. 97 percent of Americans have access to high-speed fixed service. In rural areas, that number falls to 65 percent. Nearly 30 million Americans are currently unable to benefit from the advantages of being a part of the digital age these services for Tallahassee residents. (Federal Communication Commission, 2019).

> While the conversation and research occurred, the Commission acted on the City Manager's recommendation to immediately move the needle and enhance economic development opportunities in this space. The vote to adjust the City's policy for joint use of utility poles opened the door for private utility providers to share space on 9,000 City utility poles, roughly 15 percent of the City's inventory.

> This approach proved successful, as MetroNet, a fiber optic telecommunication service provider, announced its intention to expand services to Tallahassee, bringing a planned investment of $75 million to the Capital City. Recognizing the City's desire to close the digital divide, MetroNet agreed to invest in the Bond, Frenchtown and South City neighborhoods. The company's arrival will make Tallahassee the first Gigabit City in Florida.

Public Infrastructure

Enhanced efficiency, innovative approaches and streamlined processes for maintaining our infrastructure are allowing the City to provide high quality services in a fiscally responsible way while meeting the needs of a growing community.

Key 2019 Highlights

- Adopted the Clean Energy Resolution, which sets milestone markers to move the City organization and community to 100 percent net renewable energy by 2050.
- Advanced construction of the Lower Central Drainage Ditch Erosion Control Project, helping protect private property and downstream water bodies. Project is slated to be complete in March 2020.
- Advanced construction of Weems PASS Phase II to eliminate area flooding and relieve traffic congestion at one of the community's busiest intersections. Project is slated to be complete in August 2020.
- Launched E-Scooter Pilot Program to increase use of micromobility. Since July 2019, there have been more than 100,000 e-scooter rides.
- Acquired 15 new electric buses, making a third of StarMetro's fleet electric.
- Completed drainage improvements in Midtown area to lessen localized flooding issues in the Glendale neighborhood.
- Constructed Tallahassee Solar Farm 2, a 40-megawatt solar farm, advancing the City's clean energy goal.
- Maintained 500 miles of sidewalks, replaced 12,000 linear feet of sidewalk and improved approximately 60 lane miles of City roads.
- Completed construction of the City's newest water supply well, providing system redundancy and adding capacity for the northern region of the City's water system.
- Completed the Centerville Road Force Main Rehabilitation Project, replacing 1,500 feet of sewer pipe near Hickory Ridge Road to increase service reliability and protect the environment.
- Installed new, natural gas generators at Substation 12 off Centerville Road and the Arvah B. Hopkins Power Generating Station. These units are fuel efficient, support the efficiency of solar operations and enhance system resiliency for storm situations.
- Completed the Line 55 Electric Transmission Project to enhance electric reliability.

Setting the Course for a Brighter Future

Enjoying a clean, healthy environment is a hallmark of Tallahassee's high quality of life. To ensure that this continues for future generations, the Tallahassee City Commission formally adopted the Clean Energy Resolution in February 2019. This action affirmed the City's goal of moving the organization and community to 100 percent net renewable energy by 2050.

To guide these efforts internally, the City set milestone markers that touch on such things as increasing solar energy production, reducing greenhouse emissions and shifting StarMetro fixed route buses to 100 percent electric. Progress is well underway.

- Construction occurred in 2019 for Solar Farm 2, a 40MW facility. It is expected to be operational in 2020.
- The Electric Utility has already reduced emissions beyond the set goals for both the 2020 Paris Accord and the Kyoto Protocol, and it is on track to surpass the 2025 Paris Accord goal well before that time.

• StarMetro purchased 15 new, allelectric buses this year as part of a partnership with Florida State University, making one-third of the City's daily bus fleet electric.

To meet the resolution's goal, the City is developing a Clean Energy Plan – the actionable blueprint that will guide efforts through 2050. The plan will lay out how to approach the reinvention of our City's energy future.

From programs to aid residents like free energy audits to community partnerships like the Capital Area Sustainability Compact, the City's wide-ranging endeavors continue to reduce the community's dependence on fossil fuels, enhance sustainability, and ultimately, create a flourishing environment for future Tallahasseans.

Public Safety

The City's continued commitment to addressing crime in our community through a collaborative, community-focused approach is working. Over the last year, community-centered events such as Operation Safe Neighborhoods, Splash & Jam, Water Warz and the Neighborhood Public Safety Initiative have helped TPD's officers build stronger bonds with thousands of residents. From working directly with neighborhoods to address concerns to providing a pathway for disconnected youth to connect with educational and career opportunities, the City is working holistically to address public safety and the systemic issues that contribute to it.

- Initiated site selection process for the new Tallahassee Police Department headquarters.
- Expanded City-provided Advanced Life Support services, reaching 80 percent county-wide coverage.
- Hired a new Chief of Police through a thorough nationwide search and community vetting process.
- Held Operation Safe Summer events in three neighborhoods to empower residents and help deter acts of violence.
- Adopted the Tallahassee Community Resilience Plan to address climate-related threats and economic vulnerabilities through a comprehensive strategy.
- Conducted 22 disaster preparedness presentations for more than 800 residents throughout the community.
- Awarded a $250,831 grant from the Department of Homeland Security for Hazmat, Mutual Aid Radio and Urban Search and Rescue to advance the City's safety and resilience goals.

A Community Approach to Safety

In 2019, our community had energetic and robust conversations about public safety. Like never before, residents participated in activities and contributed to decisions relating to the Tallahassee Police Department.

One of the largest engagement efforts of the past year was the process to identify a location for the next police headquarters. TPD has outgrown its current headquarters, which was originally built as a school and is nearly 100 years old. Building a new facility will require a large public investment and have ripple effects for the surrounding community. Ensuring residents have a voice in the process is vital.

Launching the effort, 68 site proposals were received from the community. Through multiple rounds of evaluation and public input, the list was narrowed to two top locations.

Work continues to analyze the sites and incorporate resident feedback prior to a presentation to the Commission for a final selection in early 2020. After selection, community input will continue to be incorporated as this project moves from a bold idea to a physical amenity for our city. Leading the charge will be the newly hired Chief of Police who was selected from a nationwide pool of 52 candidates. The process for hiring a new chief began in August 2019 with a search conducted by the Florida Police Chief's Association (FPCA). Of the 52 resume submissions accepted, FPCA recommended 20 candidates to the local Community Partners Committee, which was comprised of community, faith, business and law enforcement leaders. These community stakeholders twice narrowed the list down during public meetings and unanimously voted to advance three finalists for consideration. City Manager Reese Goad made the final selection in December.

Additionally, TPD continues to implement proactive, community-based solutions that complement law enforcement efforts, from prevention campaigns like #9PMROUTINE to community philanthropy like Bigs in Blue to educational classes like RAD (Rape Aggression Defense).

These efforts reflect the holistic approach required to affect real change in public safety. In 2020, the City and TPD will continue to work hand-in-hand with residents to make Tallahassee safer, resilient and inclusive.

Impact of Poverty

Rising economic inequality and the human impact of poverty nationwide continue to be challenges that demand a collective community response. The City supports multiple local programs and services to address nearly every influencing factor of poverty, including the education of disconnected youth, job training, health and wellness and affordable housing.

Key 2019 Highlights

- Sponsored the construction of three Big Bend Habitat for Humanity homes in the form of financial support in the amount of $195,000 and volunteer manpower provided by City employees, marking the third time the City and organization have partnered to construct a grand total of eight homes.
- Donated two City lots to Habitat for Humanity, one for a Veterans Build project and one for a Youth Build project.
- Achieved a zero percent recidivism rate for TEMPO (Tallahassee Engaged in Meaningful Productivity for Opportunity youth) program's 740 participants.

- Donated one-week of parking citation collections estimated at $2,500 to the Foundation for Leon County Schools for school supplies for students in area Title 1 schools.
- Awarded $150,000 grant from the Knight Foundation to advance food security and entrepreneurship through the City's Vacant-to-Vibrant Program.

Picking up the TEMPO for Tallahassee Youth

"TEMPO refocused my life and changed it for the better," Casey Hayes, 21, said. "I now know that I can do more."

Casey, a graduate of the TEMPO program, is one of 740 young individuals whose lives have been forever changed by the City's efforts to meaningfully connect with our community's disconnected youth. TEMPO, which was founded in October 2017, provides people ages 16-24 who are out of school and out of work (defined as disconnected youth) with educational and employment opportunities.

According to data, these young people have the greatest potential to be gun violence offenders and victims. TEMPO provides a better alternative.

Participants connect with resources, including mentoring, education, career training and local support options, such as childcare providers. By tapping participants into these networks, TEMPO has been described as a lifeline, echoing Casey's sentiments by the hundreds.

Seeing the priceless transformation of the more than 700 young adults who have participated in the TEMPO program since its inception, the City Manager, with support from the City Commission, expanded the program's staffing and resources this year. The new caseworkers are helping grow the reach and effectiveness of the program, helping local youths see their potential and find their own path to success.

Organizational Effectiveness

The City is the largest provider of municipal services in the region. A workforce of more than 3,000 employees works around the clock to provide best-in-class services to Tallahassee.

To provide these services, which include everything from utilities to law enforcement and fire protection to aviation, the City operates a balanced budget of $900 million.

While external services are frequently at the forefront, internal services, such as human resources, financial services and fleet, provide a vital support structure to ensure the City continues to operate efficiently, effectively, transparently and ethically.

- Adopted the 2024 Strategic Plan to guide City operations toward its bicentennial.
- Adopted new mission, vision and values statements, which had not been revised in 22 years.
- Created the Department of Community Services to directly combat the impacts of poverty.
- Held accelerated job fair for 300 job seekers, of which at least 90 received a conditional offer of employment on site or a call-back for a second interview.
- Implemented a new Parental Leave Policy providing new parents up to six weeks of paid leave.
- Created the Office of Diversity and Inclusion to further the development and implementation of the City's diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives.
- Established a recruitment pipeline for engineers with the FAMU-FSU College of Engineering.
- Significantly increased the diversity of the City's Leadership Team through the hiring and development of five Department Directors.

Our City. Our Future.

Our community celebrates its bicentennial in 2024. To set the groundwork that will guide our community into its 200th anniversary, the Tallahassee City Commission approved the 2024 Strategic Plan in 2019. This plan, the first overarching plan of its magnitude in the City's history, set forth the framework for us to chart our progress toward achieving our collective aspirations for who we are as a community, while solidifying the City as the national leader in the delivery of public service.

The five-year strategic plan seeks to build a creative Capital City that supports a strong community with vibrant neighborhoods and diverse, passionate people; that thrives as an innovative economic and educational hub; and that protects our natural resources.

To address and streamline organizational efforts for key elements in the strategic plan, City Manager Reese Goad created two new departments: the Office of Diversity and Inclusion and the Department of Community Services.

The Office of Diversity and Inclusion is responsible for the further development and implementation of the City's diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives. One of its directives is ensuring the City's workforce is reflective of the community it serves. This includes developing a strategic focus on recruiting, retaining and promoting the best and most diverse talent available.

The City's award-winning programs Tallahassee Engaged in Meaningful Productivity for Opportunity (TEMPO) and the Tallahassee Future Leaders Academy (TFLA) are now housed within the Department of Community Services. These programs directly combat the impacts of poverty by connecting local youth with education and employment opportunities.

These two new departments were created within the existing Fiscal Year 2020 budget – a testament to the City's commitment to fiscal responsibility. This commitment has helped the City achieve "AA" bond ratings and keep the cost of municipal services among the lowest for peer cities in the state. The City remains committed to its transparent, year-round budget process.

The effectiveness of any organization begins with its credibility among the community it serves. The City is committed to honoring public trust by being transparent, accountable, accessible and open.

Public Trust

The City is committed to demonstrating fiscal responsibility, ethical decision making and efficient use of resources, while maintaining transparency and encouraging citizen engagement.

- Key 2019 Highlights
- Achieved 100 percent participation in ethics training by all employees.
- Adopted Ethics Reform Package, including a zero gift policy, expanded jurisdiction of the Independent Ethics Board and expanded financial reporting requirements.
- Held three City Commission meetings outside City Hall (Gilchrist Elementary School in April 2019 and the Smith-Williams Community Center in January and June 2019).
- Expanded mailing and notice radius for public hearings related to site plan reviews, re-zonings and the sale of City property.
- Eliminated the 30-minute provision for agendaed items for public comment at City Commission meetings.
- Implemented an opportunity for public input at the time each agenda item is taken up at City Commission meetings.
- Placed the full list of current lobbyists and vendors on Talgov.com.

Commission Passes Ethics Reform Package

On Dec. 4, 2019, the Tallahassee City Commission unanimously passed the most comprehensive ethics reform ordinance in City history, creating one of the strongest ethics packages for any municipality in Florida. The package aims to strengthen public trust in local government and enhance transparency.

The new and strengthened provisions dictate the high ethical standards required of all City employees, from the highest level of the Commission to seasonal part-time work. For example, an updated gift policy prohibits the solicitation or acceptance of gifts from any entity or individual who conducts or wishes to do business with the City. The expanded financial disclosure provision requires elected officials to submit a document consistent with a Florida Form 6 reflecting full disclosure of their financial interests. Hotline calls alleging ethical violations are now afforded the same confidential protections as any other ethics complaint. These are only some of the changes that comprise the Ethics Reform Package.

In a fast-paced, ever-evolving world, these new standards set pillars for the organization and provide clarity for decision making that create consistency at all levels and greater accountability. Becoming the national leader in the delivery of public service requires a strong foundation and a strong vision, both of which were set in 2019.
